Grasping God's Word – A Class on Hermeneutics¹

Part 2

Fall 2008

“You must examine all things with great care; hold on to the good things that past the test.”
(1 Thess. 5:21, Personal Translation)

I. PURPOSE AND SCOPE OF THE COURSE

This course is an introduction to the interpretation of the Bible, seeking to provide a historical perspective and reliable principles with which to study, interpret, and apply Scripture.

II. GOALS

After completing this course the student should be able to:

1. Recognize literary structural elements in the text.
2. Apply principles of detailed observation to a verse, a paragraph, and to longer units of text.
3. Determine word meanings within texts, and demonstrate the proper use of concordances.
4. Discuss the issue of whether or not the Bible has different levels of meaning.
5. Explain the role of the Holy Spirit in Biblical Interpretation.
6. Describe the history of our English Bible and explain the differences in modern translations.
7. Discuss the issue of “reader response” versus “authorial intent” approaches to biblical interpretation.
8. Discuss the role of context and historical/cultural background in determining meaning.
9. Discuss the issue of "reader response" versus "authorial intent" approaches to biblical interpretation.
10. An intangible goal, but a major goal nevertheless, is that the student will learn to enjoy personal Bible Study.

III. TEXTBOOKS

Required textbook for the course is:

Duvall, J. Scott, and J. Daniel Hays. Grasping God's Word: A Hands-on Approach to Reading, Interpreting, and Applying the Bible. Second Edition. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 2005.

¹ The Study of Biblical Meaning

Also a non-paraphrased translation of the Bible is required. Acceptable translations include NIV, NASB, KJV, NKJV, RSV, and ESV. Translations not recommended are the Living Bible, the Amplified Bible, Good News for Modern Man, the Message, and other paraphrases. If you are currently looking for a good study Bible, we would recommend The Spirit of the Reformation Study Bible, General Editor. Richard L. Pratt, Jr.

Strongly Recommended:

Duvall, J. Scott, and J. Daniel Hays. Grasping God's Word--Workbook. Second Edition. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 2005.

Goodrick, Edward W., and John R. Kohlenberger. The NIV Exhaustive Concordance. Second Edition. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 1990.

A great electronic Biblical Exegesis and Research tool is Bibleworks 7 which can be purchased at www.bibleworks.com.
